

CIA Accused of Ghost-Writing

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet magazine charged yesterday that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency ghost-wrote the memoirs of Svetlana Alliluyeva, Stalin's daughter.

The monthly scientific and political magazine, International Life, said in an article that the CIA also is backing a group to distribute "anti-Soviet" literature in Russia.

It named imprisoned authors Andrei D. Sinyavsky and Yuli M. Daniel as among those whose banned works the group planned to distribute.

Of the memoirs of Mrs. Alliluyeva, soon to be published in America, the magazine said, "Many press organs in the West suppose that they were fabricated by ghost writers for the CIA."

The memoirs, the article added, would be disseminated in Russia to spoil the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution Nov. 7.
